

Name of Prize	Prize Sponsor	Prize Description
African-American History Prize	The Carter G. Woodson Home National Historic Site, National Capital Parks-East, National Park Service	Sponsored by The Carter G. Woodson Home National Historic Site, National Capital Parks-East, National Park Service, which preserves the home of the legendary Dr. Carter G. Woodson located in Washington, D.C. This prize is awarded to the outstanding entry in either division whose research and presentation relates to and/or is inspired by the life and times of Dr. Carter G. Woodson.
American Labor History	American Labor Studies Center	The American Labor Studies Center is a non-profit organization whose mission is to collect, analyze, create and disseminate labor history and labor studies curricula and related materials. This prize is awarded to an outstanding entry in any category, in either division that involves American Labor History.
Civil War History	The Civil War Preservation Trust	Sponsored by the Civil War Preservation Trust, a nonprofit organization that promotes appreciation and stewardship of our nation's historical, cultural, and environmental heritage through preservation of significant Civil War battlefields and supporting preservation and education programs. This prize is awarded to an outstanding entry in any category and from either division which focuses on the history of the American Civil War.
Constitutional Rights In History	The Bill of Rights Institute	Sponsored by the Bill of Rights Institute, a non-profit organization that develops instructional materials and educational programs on America's Founding documents and principles, this prize is awarded to an outstanding entry in any category from either the senior or junior division, which documents and analyzes how individuals have exercised their constitutional rights throughout American history.
George C. Marshall 20th Century	George C. Marshall Foundation	Sponsored by the George C. Marshall Foundation, this prize is awarded to an outstanding entry in either division whose research and presentation relate to aspects of the life and times of George C. Marshall, including World War I, the Civilian Conservation Corps, World War II, the early period of the Cold War, the Marshall Plan, women and minorities in the military, the American Red Cross, and other issues of military and diplomatic history, and the social consequences thereof, in the first half of the 20th century. The George C. Marshall Foundation was created to preserve the legacy of Gen. Marshall and to promote the ideals and values of disciplined selfless service, hard work, integrity, devotion to duty and compassion, which characterized his life.
History of Congress Award	Association of Centers for the Study of Congress	Sponsored by the Association of Centers for the Study of Congress (ACSC), this prize is awarded to an outstanding entry in any category and from either division which has as its primary focus the history of Congress. The ACSC supports a wide range of programs designed to inform and educate students, scholars, policy-makers, and members of the general public on the history of Congress, legislative process, and current issues facing Congress.

History in the Federal Government	Society for History in the Federal Government	Sponsored by the Society for History in the Federal Government, a national professional organization open to all that are interested in federal history programs and the history of all branches of the U.S. government. The prize is awarded to the best entry in any category, in either division, which illuminates the history of the American federal government.
History of Agriculture and Rural Life	Agricultural History Society	Sponsored by the Agricultural Historical Society the prize is awarded to the best project in either division, in any category, focused on the history of agriculture and/or rural life in any country or time period. The Agricultural Historical Society was founded in 1919 to promote the study of the history of agriculture and rural life in America and throughout the world.
Immigration History Award	Lombardo Family	This prize is given in recognition of demonstrated excellence in the study of Immigration history. The prize is awarded to an outstanding student project in either division that documents and analyzes Immigration to the United States. The subject(s) can be an individual, group(s), a right, challenge(s), triumph(s), or any topic that has historical significance, influence or impact. The project should explain why the subjects (s) is/are important and place it/them in historical context.
Irish or Irish-American History	Ancient Order of Hibernians	Sponsored by the Ancient Order of Hibernians (AOH) and Ladies Ancient Order of Hibernians (LAOH), the prize is awarded to two projects in either junior or senior divisions, in any category. These outstanding entries demonstrate excellence in the study on presentation of Irish/Irish-American History. The AOH and LAOH the oldest, largest, and most prominent Irish Catholic fraternal organization in the nation. It was founded in New York City in 1836 and presently has a membership that exceeds 100,000. The medals awarded with this prize are in honor of Commodore John Barry, USN (1745-1803), who was a native of Ireland and Father of the U.S. Navy.
Lee Allen History of Baseball Award	Society for American Baseball Research	Sponsored by the Society for American Baseball Research, an association of over 6,000 individuals who enjoy reading, writing, talking, and learning about all aspects of baseball. The Lee Allen prize honors the best entry in any category and in either division relating to baseball which best demonstrates research skills, accuracy, and an appreciation of the national pastime. The prize is named in honor of Lee Allen, the historian at the National Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum from 1950-1969.
U.S. Constitution Award	National Archives and Records Administration	Sponsored by the National Archives and Records Administration, the prize is awarded to an outstanding entry in any category and in both Junior and Senior divisions that uses the records of the Federal government to either illuminate the creation and ratification of the U.S. Constitution or to focus on Constitutional issues throughout American History.
Captain Ken Coskey Naval History Prize	Naval Historical Foundation	Sponsored by the Naval Historical Foundation, whose mission for over eighty years has been to preserve and promote America's proud naval heritage. The prize is named for retired naval aviator Captain Ken Coskey, who served his nation with distinction throughout a long career including nearly five years as a Vietnam War POW. During his fifteen years in leadership roles at the Naval Historical Center and the Naval Historical Foundation, he became a strong supporter of National History Day. The award is given to the best entry on naval history in any category and in either division.

Outstanding Entry on Colonial America or Revolutionary History	Colonial Williamsburg Foundation	Sponsored by the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation, a Foundation dedicated to teaching, preservation, study, and presentation of the colonial American and Revolutionary period, the prize recognizes demonstrated excellence in the study of colonial American or Revolutionary period history. The prize is awarded to an outstanding entry in both Junior and Senior divisions, in any category that documents and analyzes a colonial American or Revolutionary period subject (s).
United States Marine Corps History	Marine Corps Heritage Foundation	Sponsored by the Marine Corps Heritage Foundation, an organization dedicated to promoting the study of Marine Corps history and traditions, this prize is awarded to an outstanding entry in any category in either the junior or senior division that demonstrates an appreciation of Marine Corps History. The topic MUST NOT BE ON NAVAJO CODE TALKERS.
Women's History	Journal of Women's History and The Coordinating Council for Women in History	Sponsored by the Journal of Women's History and the Coordinating Council for Women in History, this prize is awarded to the best project in either division, in any category, that focuses on the contribution, accomplishments, experiences, and perspectives of women in U.S. history. The Journal of Women's History (JWH) is dedicated to publishing the best scholarship in women's history and stimulating dialogue of substantive issues in the field. The winners of the Women's History Special Prize will be featured in JWH.
World War II	National World War II Museum	The National World War II Museum illuminates the American experience during the WWII era with moving personal stories, historic artifacts and powerful interactive displays. This prize is awarded to an outstanding entry in both the junior and senior divisions that involves World War II history.
Outstanding Entry on an International Theme	The History Channel	This award goes to the best SENIOR entry that focuses on an international topic and provides research from sources outside of the United States.
Outstanding Entry Tied to an Historic Site	The History Channel	This award goes to the best SENIOR entry that uses at least one historic site as a major focus for entry research and presentation.